

Parish Pixels is a national photography competition for Anglican Churches

in England, Wales and Scotland, launched by Ecclesiastical Insurance. The insurer is calling on budding photographers to capture the essence of their church in a single snapshot.

“We know that every church, its congregation and community, is unique. From the volunteer who holds everything together, to the children’s groups who brighten up the Sunday services. From beautiful flower gardens, to the exceptional architecture of your church building - no two churches are the same and we want to celebrate what makes your church special.”

Churches will need to submit a single photograph and a one-sentence caption to accompany it.

The image can be of people, places, features, artefacts or anything that highlights the uniqueness of the church or its importance to its local community. Ecclesiastical will showcase some of the best entries on its website and social media channels. A panel of judges, which will include representatives from the regions, will select eight winners from across the UK who will each receive a prize of £1,500 for their church.

Following this, the public will be given the chance to vote for their favourite image before Ecclesiastical and church representatives select an overall winner. The overall winner will receive a £5,000 prize for the church.
